Canada makes progress on accessibility legislation

As you may know, the federal government has consulted with people across the country on the planned accessibility legislation. A copy of the report on what was learned from the consultation process can be found here. CCDI's accessibility campaign was launched to help raise awareness with those who are responsible for designing and planning our built environment. We believe campaigns like these are critical in changing attitudes and, as a result, changing behaviours. Starting in September, we will be sharing these videos at public venues. We hope you will have your say about physical barriers that exist within the workplace and in buildings.
